“People with learning disabilities and/or autism and their families have an array of rights in law or Government policy - through human rights law, the Equalities Act, the NHS constitution, the Mental Health Act, the Care Act, the Mental Capacity Act, the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, and so on... [but] the lived experience of people with learning disabilities and/or autism and their families is too often very different. Too often they feel powerless, their rights unclear, misunderstood or ignored’.

Building the Right Support, Transforming Care Together National Conference

The conference aims to:

The conference aims to increase understanding and awareness of the Transforming Care agenda to disabled young people, parents/carers from diverse communities and stakeholders.

During this event delegates will engage in discussions and workshops regarding Transforming Care, Building the Right Support improving services for people with learning disabilities and/or autism, who display behaviour that challenges, including those with a mental health condition.

Speakers will cover areas of how we can support and deliver the Transforming Care agenda, ensuring disabled persons and families can have their say in how they wish to be involved in their local Transforming Care plans.

The conference will also be highlighting the importance of the implementation of equality and rights approach to meet individual needs supporting rights and dignity. Presented similar to page 2 as you did for our safeguarding conference.

What is the Transforming Care Programme?

The Transforming Care Programme is addressing long-standing issues and making change to see:

- more choice for people and their families, and more say in their care;
- providing more care in the community, with personalised support provided by multi-disciplinary health and care teams ;
- more innovative services to give people a range of care options, with personal budgets, so that care meets individuals' needs;
- providing early more intensive support for those who need it, so that people can stay in the community, close to home;
- but for those that do need in-patient care, ensuring it is only for as long as they need it.
